the labor leaders of Youngstown are charging that combination to increase the price of labor is analogous to a combination to increase the price of a commodity. No wonder that Gompers grows over the charge that employers are conspirators when they unite to increase the payroll while employees are blameless when they unite to fix a new scale of wages. The incongruities of the Sherman law and of the Clayton bill are so manifest that a sweeping demand for their repeal will some day receive general approval.—Leslie's.

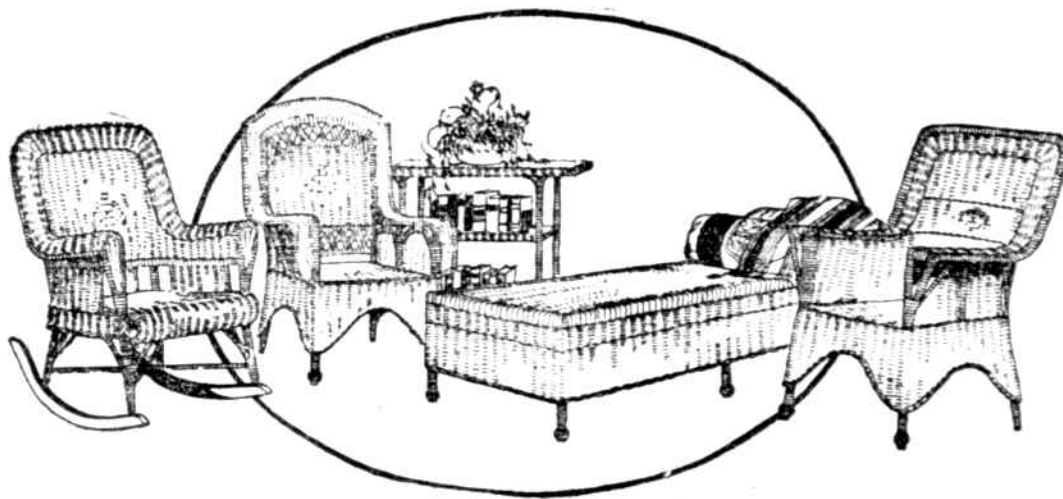

Is It a Crime to Raise Wages?

Ridiculous! Is it a crime to increase the size of the pay envelope? We hope not. We have always stood for big business because we have felt that without big business the size of the pay envelope and the dinner pail both must shrink. The recent indictment of

Judge Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, on a charge of conspiracy by the grand jury of Youngstown, Ohio, seems to be based on the allegation that, under Judge Gary's influence, the principal steel companies at Youngstown all raised wages at the same time. If Judge Gary possesses such magical influence, workmen should pray for his frequent visits to all centers of industry. Mr. Sam Gompers, who has an eye single to the glory of organized labor and himself, fears that the indictment of Judge Gary is a serious matter for the cause of labor. He says: "No principle constitutes a greater menace to the freedom and ultimate well being of the wage earners of our country than does the principle that labor-power of human beings is a commodity or article of commerce." Mr. Gompers and his associates labor diligently at Washington to secure the declaration in the Clayton law that labor is not a commodity, yet some of
